Contest Scoring System

Group Stage - For every group stage game you can either pick a team to win the match or predict a draw. 1 point will be given for each correct pick. For example, if you pick Mexico to beat South Africa in the opening game and Mexico wins, you get 1 point. If, however, you were to pick England and the United States to draw in the first game of Group C but England won, then you would receive no points.

Round-of-16 - In addition to the points you receive from the Group Stage games, you accumulate points in this round by successfully picking the Group Winners and Runners-up. There are a possible 3 points for every Group Winner and 3 points for every Runner-up who make it into the Round-of-16.

Knock-out Stages – you earn points in this round when you pick which countries will win their games and advance into the Quarter-Finals. Each Team to qualify for the Quarter-Finals is worth 5 points.

Quarter-Finals - there will be 4 teams to advance into the Semi-Finals, and each Quarter-Final winner will be worth 10 points.

Semi-Finals – the winners play for the World Cup Championship, and the two losing nations play for 3rd place. The 3rd place winner will give you an additional 15 points if you pick the winner.

Championship - the final 2 countries who reach the World Cup Final will each be worth 15 points if you can anticipate the teams to qualify for the final. If you also can predict and pick the winner of the world cup it is worth 25 points.
